I've been interested in the environment since we studied about global warming. Last week, when I was looking for some information about the environment on the Internet, I found very interesting facts about forests. Today I'm going to talk about them.

First, look at the graph. This graph shows the forest area percentages of Japan and four other countries. You can see that a high percentage of the land in Japan is forest area. Also, aren't you surprised to see that the forest area percentages of the other countries are lower? For example, look at the forest area percentage of [①]. I thought that it would be over 50%, but the forest area percentage of [①] is about a half of the forest area percentage of Japan.

Now look at the table. This table shows ten prefectures with the highest forest area percentages in Japan. You can see that only two prefectures have forest area percentages that are (② h　　) than 80%. Gifu is one of them.

I like Gifu very much because Gifu is rich in nature. So, I hope that I can do something good for the environment in the future to take care of the forests in Gifu.

Graph

Table

Kochi	84.3 %
Gifu	81.5 %
Shimane	78.4 %
Nagano	78.1 %
Yamanashi	78.0 %
Nara	77.1 %
Wakayama	76.9 %
Iwate	76.9 %
Miyazaki	76.2 %
Tokushima	75.3 %

(注)　forest area percentage(s)：森林率(ある地域の面積の中で森林面積が占める割合)

4 中学生の美紀（Miki）は，アメリカに住む友人に，身近なできごとを英語で書いて，定期的に送っています。次の英文は，その一つです。1～7の問いに答えなさい。

Yesterday morning, I gave an umbrella to my father at my house when he was leaving for work. I said to him, "Dad, this is my birthday present for you. I know your birthday is tomorrow, but the weather news says that it will(①)today. So I want you to use this umbrella today." He said, "Thank you, Miki. This is a nice present. Green is my favorite color." I said to him, "I'm glad you like it. Please don't lose it, Dad!" He smiled and said, "I won't."

The weather news was right. It started to rain in the evening. I felt very happy. Why? Because I was looking forward to my father's words, "(②)." But when he came home, I didn't hear those words from him. I was very shocked to see him. He was wet to the skin and he didn't have the umbrella in his hand. I got very angry and shouted at him, "Why didn't you use the umbrella that I gave you this morning? Where is it? Did you lose it? You broke your promise!" He was trying to say something, but I ran into my room.

This morning, I left home for school without saying "Happy Birthday!" to my father. He looked very sad.

At school, I could not study hard. One reason was that I was still angry at him. But there was another reason. During my classes, I thought about my words to my father. I said to myself, "Why did I say such a thing? What did he want to say to me?"

After school, when I was walking near the station, I saw Ms. White, my English teacher. I said to her, "Hello, Ms. White. Are you waiting for someone?" She noticed me, "Oh, Miki. You're going back home, right? I'm looking for a man who helped me here yesterday." Then she showed me a green umbrella. I was surprised to see it. I said to Ms. White, "I think it is my father's umbrella. I gave it to him as a birthday present yesterday morning." She looked very surprised and said, "Oh, really? Miki, your father is a very kind person. I think you should be proud of him." I could not say anything.

Then she told me about yesterday evening. "Do you remember that it began to rain suddenly, Miki? Just then, I got off the train. It was raining so hard. I didn't have an umbrella with me, so I had to wait. But it didn't stop raining. Then your father came to me and said in English, 'Please use this umbrella.' I said, 'Thank you so much. But is it really OK for me to borrow your umbrella? I think you don't have another one with you.' Your father smiled and said, 'I'm OK because my house is near the station. Actually, this umbrella is a birthday present from my daughter. She is a nice girl, so if I explain to her, I'm sure that(③)and she will become happy, too.' Then he ran into the rain without an umbrella."

After listening to her story, I felt so sorry to know I hurt my father's feelings. "Ms. White, I'm not a nice girl." I told her everything about yesterday and this morning. "I'm not a nice girl. I said many ④terrible things to my father. He tried to explain something, but I didn't try to listen to him." Ms. White said, "I think your father is right. You are a nice girl. Now you're feeling sorry for him and you've told me everything. Cheer up, Miki. Please smile and tell him 'Happy Birthday' when he comes home today. And please give this umbrella back to him for me."

Now I am in my room and waiting for my father. When he comes back, I will give him the umbrella again with a message card. I've finished writing on the card, "Happy Birthday and I'm very sorry, Dad. I'm very proud of you because you are a kind person." Now I'm thinking about drawing ⑤a picture like this on the message card. If he sees the picture, he will know how much I like him. Because in the picture, he can see two smiling faces under one umbrella. Don't you think it is a nice idea?

(注) Dad：お父さん　　wet to the skin：びしょぬれで　　break one's promise：約束を破る
cheer up：元気を出す
